

May Leaves Court in Washington

Buttressing his coat against the chill, former Rep. Andrew J. May leaves Municipal Court in Washington after pleading innocent to charges that he and three key figures of the Garsson munitions combine—Dr. Henry M. Garsson, Murray Garsson, Joseph F. Freeman—entered into a corrupt conspiracy to defraud the government. Behind May is his attorney, Warren E. Magee.

'Across the Board' Rent Increase Is Ruled Out

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—The possibility of a flat "across the board" rent increase was ruled out today as OPA revised regulations to make it easier for landlords to get boosts in hardship cases.

OPA officials said they did not know how many of the estimated 16,000,000 dwelling units under rent ceilings would be affected. But they did predict that small property owners would be the ones "most likely to benefit" under the changed regulations.

An official familiar with top administration rent discussions pointed out that "previously there was

Plane Crash In London Kills 11

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, Jan. 25.—A Rome-bound plane of the Spencer Airways carrying settlers for South Africa crashed and burned in the takeoff from Croydon airport today, killing at least 11 of its 23 occupants.

Two of the 18 passengers were missing. Ten persons survived. The plane had five crew members.

Relatives and friends of the victims witnessed the tragedy. The Rome-bound DE-3 plane faltered momentarily, as it became airborne in a light snow and then plummeted to the field, crashing into an unoccupied Czech Airlines craft. Both ships burst into flame.

Air Commodore Vernon Brown, chief inspector of accidents for the Ministry of Civil Aviation, said the plane was "burned out."

Two hours after the crash, 11 bodies were recovered.

Among the dead was the pilot, Capt. Ted Spencer of Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia, head of Spencer Airlines, which operates from Victoria Falls, Southern Rhodesia.

STOFFER FACES NEW CHARGES

STALIN COOL TO EXCHANGE OF STUDENTS

Britain Proposes To Let Officers Study Other Nation's Programs

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, Jan. 25.—Foreign office sources said today the British government did not share Prime Minister Stalin's view that any exchange of British and Russian military student-officers might be interpreted by public opinion as "preparing for war."

Stalin's attitude was announced last night by the Moscow radio, which said the prime minister had rejected an exchange proposal advanced by Field Marshal Lord Montgomery, British chief-of-staff who visited Moscow recently.

British sources would neither confirm nor deny officially even that Montgomery had made such a proposal.

Plan Not Abandoned
The field marshal indicated he had not abandoned the exchange plan.

Tass quoted Stalin as saying that Britain and the United States had been denounced "in various press organs" for their exchange of aviation students and for plans to standardize training and armaments, and that Russia "would not like also to become an object of denunciation."

The British press, meanwhile, mailed the recent exchange of notes between Stalin and Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin as clearing up a Moscow "misinterpretation" about the 20-year Russian-British treaty of alliance.

In a note to Bevin, Stalin said the treaty still stands but that certain "reservations" would have to be removed if its extension until 1992 were considered.

The foreign office said that no steps had yet been taken toward meeting these "reservations" and that it was not known how exactly to deal with Stalin's views.

'Not Tied To Any'—Bevin
Previously publicized were Bevin's Dec. 22 radio statement that Britain "does not tie herself to anyone," the interpretation of Pravda, Soviet Communist party newspaper, that this repudiated the 1942 alliance and the British government's denial that this was true.

Last night's foreign-office disclosures showed also that Stalin had expressed puzzlement over Bevin's statement to Field Marshal Montgomery in Moscow recently and that Bevin had reassured Stalin in a note that "it is certainly not my view that the treaty was dead."

In his note, Stalin referred to this reply and also to Bevin's proposals that the treaty, set up for 20 years, should be extended to 50 years.

"It is now clear that you and I share the same viewpoint with regard to the Anglo-Soviet treaty," the Soviet leader said. He declared that the explanations of Bevin and the British government left "no room for misunderstanding."

"Before extending the treaty," he added, "it is necessary to change it, freeing it from the reservations which weaken this treaty."

THIRTEEN TO JOIN THEATRIANS TROUPE

Thirteen new members will be initiated into the Salem High school chapter of the National Thespians Thursday in the High School.

Those who will join the group at that time are the following: Elnes Equitz, Billie Finley, Mary Lou Haesly, Virginia Jugastru, Emmet Ogil, Janet Robinson, Marilyn Schaefer, Gene Shafer, Shirley Smith, Helen Wright, Martha Flickinger, Lee Ward and Sally Ziegler. The last three are Juniors, the others being Seniors.

Requirements for admission to the Thespians are a "C" average in grades and 12 points, awarded for parts in one-act plays, parts in class plays and serving on play committees.

Mrs. Frank Tarr is the troupe president.

State Explains Delay In Aged Pension Checks

COLUMBUS, Jan. 25.—The mailing of checks to Ohio's more than 119,000 aid for aged recipients is running behind schedule because the legislature was late in providing the money, the State Division of Aid for the Aged said today.

The division could not begin mailing the checks until the legislature approved legislation providing funds for operation of the state government during the first six months of 1947.

Plane Carrying Fortune In Gold Missing

MANILA, Jan. 25.—A two-engine plane of the Philippine Airlines carrying $15,000,000 in gold was reported to have crashed today ten miles from Hongkong.

The C-47 plane left Manila this morning for Hongkong. It had no passengers aboard. The crew consisted of four men.

The Manila office of the airlines announced it would send out a search plane.

When the last radio contact was made with the craft it was reported ten miles from Hongkong.

Cites Psychological Injuries to Babies Not Given True Love

(By Associated Press)
BALTIMORE, Jan. 25.—Take it from Dr. Milton J. E. Senn—it's perfectly all right to cuddle and coo at baby, and even to feed him on his schedule rather than on yours.

D. Senn, associate professor of pediatrics in psychiatry at the Cornell Medical school, told a meeting of Maryland Nurses' organizations last night that indulging in the whims of infants may even prevent dire consequences.

The newborn infant, he said, can suffer psychological injuries with physical manifestations if his "individual rhythm" is disturbed by a rigid regime.

Said he: "Our American culture has become so fearful of 'spoiling' a baby that infants suffer frustration of their emotional needs, and consequently respond with excessive crying, thumb-sucking, indifference to food, vomiting, and other physical manifestations."

If the baby is fed when hungry rather than at specified meal hours he will work out a schedule for himself, Dr. Senn declared.

"There is an emotional need for occasional cuddling and rocking to allay the sense of fear, insecurity, and even—later—of guilt."

90 IN ATTENDANCE AT FARM BUREAU YOUTH CONFERENCE

Stanley Howard of R. D. Salem, district field supervisor of the Ohio Farm Bureau, conducted the first attendees feature, "Farm Bureau and Youth," at the Youth conference of District 3, Ohio Farm Bureau, in session today at the Memorial building.

Approximately 90 youths from most of the 12 counties, which comprise the district, Ashtabula, Carroll, Harrison, Jefferson, Tuscarora, Columbiana, Mahoning, Portage, Lake, Stark, and Geauga are in attendance.

The conference opened with a recreational period in charge of Darwin Bryan of Columbus.

Reports of Farm Bureau activities were given by representatives this morning.

Mrs. Litta Roberson, Chardon, Geauga county health director, will discuss "Youth Problems and Relationships" at 3 this afternoon, following special classes in public speaking and folk games.

James West of Perry, state trustee, will talk on "Rural Youth in Europe and America" at 7 tonight.

The conference will close with a party from 7:45 to 10, which will be in charge of Mr. Bryan.

N. A. Connor of Columbus, district field supervisor, is in charge of the conference.

KILLED FOLLOWING SUCCESSFUL HOLDUP

CLEVELAND, Jan. 25.—A stubby, bald-headed man took $193 from Mrs. Edna Shalala in a west side supermarket yesterday at pistol point, fled down crowded West 25th street, and was overtaken and shot to death by the hold-up victim's brother-in-law, a former Army captain.

The man killed was Martin J. Gabian, 47. The shooting, by John Shalala, 32, was termed justifiable homicide by Police Prosecutor Joseph Stearns.

Artillery Echoes In Alaskan Wastes As Maneuvers Begin

By CLARK BEACH
WITH TASK FORCE FRIGID, Fairbanks, Alaska, Jan. 24 (Delayed)—The American Arctic got its baptism of fire today.

The primordial silence of the frozen Tundra was split by the thunder of artillery fire. Tanks rumbled across the ice and snow, creating an unexpected ice fog which veiled the advance.

Soldiers of the army ground forces charged heavily across the white, bitter wasteland, their rifles crackling and humming in the stillness. Pyrotechnics flashed garishly in the blue gray twilight.

It was a mock battle fought by task force frigid, the first such maneuvers ever held in a northern Alaska winter, according to staff officers, they said it showed how Alaska could be defended if attacked.

The party of touring newsmen and photographers set out in weasels and jeeps before dawn to witness this unique test of military equipment and tactics. It was 47 degrees below zero.

A dismal ice fog made it impossible to see more than one hundred yards at sunrise. The dim headlights of the caravan and the thick clouds of our breaths were about all we could see.

We drove for 23 miles across the first road ever built in this section of the Tundra, which thaws in the summer for only a few feet. Below that ice never melts.

We crossed the ice bridge over the Tanana river, wound south between the snow drifts and low forest growth to the artillery emplacement. Howitzers of seventy five and one hundred and five millimeters blasted the imaginary enemy, whose advance on Fairbanks we were opposing.

The projectiles made a strange, prolonged whizzing sound, caused by the metal plowing through masses of ice particles in the air. These ice particles make it necessary to set the range at 7700 yards to hit a target only 6800 yards away.

U.S. Steel, CIO Agree To Extend Contract

Uninterrupted Production Assured Until April 30 During New Negotiations

(By The Associated Press)
PITTSBURGH, Jan. 25.—Uninterrupted production in the nation's largest steel mills will continue at least through April 30 by agreement between U. S. Steel Corp. and the United Steelworkers union (CIO) to extend their present contract to permit more leisurely, careful discussion of a 1947 pact.

Philip Murray, president of both the CIO and Steelworkers, announced the agreement last night. Contract talks opened yesterday at a two-hour meeting in which the union presented a 15-point program of general demands, the company made its contract extension proposal, and both sides decided to adjourn until Monday.

Feb. 15 Expiration Date
Murray said he "assumed other companies under contract with the union would follow the same program" in extending contracts, most of which expire on the same date—Feb. 15.

Just a year ago, the union's 853,000 membership was embarked on a month-long strike. In that controversy the union originally demanded a flat $2 a day increase but settled for 18½ cents an hour, a figure that became the national wage increase pattern.

This year's agreement to extend the contract during negotiations brought from Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman the comment that it was "a very fine move on the part of all concerned." He added "they did it themselves" without direct white house prodding.

Edgar K. Warren, director of the U. S. Labor department's Conciliation service, saw "a further indication that the United Steelworkers of America and the U. S. Steel Corp. are making a real effort to adjust their differences peacefully."

Announcing the extension, Murray declared:

"The union agreed to this course of action because we believe that real collective bargaining requires complete discussion of all points. During such discussions the public should not be kept in a state of apprehension. We likewise understand some of the problem confronting management. Such as their uncertainty as to their liability in portable-portal suits. . . . We believe this decision will help our whole national economy and at the same time show that management and labor are seeking to settle their problems through peaceful relations."

Murray pointed out "the expiration date of Feb. 15 does not provide sufficient time to conduct effective collective bargaining" and joined with Benjamin F. Fairless, president of U. S. Steel, in saying the extension does not carry with it any agreement of retroactivity of any terms agreed upon later. Both said that would be discussed in the future.

Fairless said in a statement: "The proposal was made and accepted because of the desire on the part of both parties to make a real contribution to the national welfare. This action assures continuity of our steel operations until April 30, 1947. During the period of the extension, there may be clarification of matters now constituting issues between the parties which vitally affect wage and other costs."

Oil Gusher Makes Farm Family Rich
(By Associated Press)
ELMORE CITY, Okla., Jan. 25.—The alfalfa farm they have always dreamed about is in sight for the Lester Howard family—because from 100 to 200 barrels of oil is gushing from their property every hour.

The 39-year-old Howard, his wife, Vera, and their three children had a pretty hard time of it on their 140-acre sandy farm in Garvin county. Kerosene lamps, wood heat and water from an outside well don't spell comfort, and in Mrs. Howard's words, "we lived here so long without anything that I just can't imagine what real comfort is like."

The Sohio Co. brought in the big gusher this week and it may make the Howards rich. Already they have realized $21,000 in leases and royalties, and the most coveted possession on the place is a new tractor.

Mrs. Howard said, "I'm willing to find out what real comfort is like. It's sure going to be nice."

What do they plan to do with money from the gusher?

"We want a good alfalfa farm with a well-built house, well-furnished and with all the conveniences," said the Howards.

Husband Drops Charges Against Michigan Pastor

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. Jan. 25.—An adultery case involving a Methodist minister and a 40-year-old choir singer in his congregation was ended today after the singer's husband dropped charges against the pair.

Rev. Daniel L. Reedy, 54, who admitted taking a ten-day trip to Texas with Mrs. Marguerite Cowles, said he hoped to "go some place and start in the ministry all over again" after Police Judge Edward Burleson approved a motion to dismiss the case yesterday.

Paul Cowles, who has blamed the incident on his wife's nervous condition, requested withdrawal of the charges in a letter to Prosecutor Menso R. Bolt. Both the minister, who left his pulpit at nearby Plainfield, and Mrs. Cowles have been reunited with their families.

COURT RULING DRAWS WRATH OF PROSECUTOR

Former Chief Given Six Months In Jail and Fine of $100

Portage County Prosecutor Seabury H. Ford is definitely not through with the case of former Salem Police Chief Ralph N. Stoffer. Although the ex-chief today began a six-month term in Portage county jail as a result of a sentence pronounced by Common Pleas Judge Blake C. Cook on a misdemeanor charge of pointing firearms, Prosecutor Ford told The Salem News today "You can be assured that further action in this case will be taken as I am definitely not satisfied with the court's decision."

Ford, who declared he has had to work the case "single-handedly" from the start, was emphatic in his opinion that Stoffer had been given leniency by the court and other Portage county officials.

Mind Not Made Up
He was unable to say just what his further action might be, but indicated that he would either continue the case completed against Stoffer into higher courts, or would bring into court four other charges already placed against the ex-chief, who "shot up" Deerfield village with a machinegun in a drunken spree last Memorial day.

Ford holds indictments against Stoffer on charges of illegal use of a machine gun, shooting with intent to kill and shooting at other persons.

He also holds two other charges over the chief in bills of information brought into court on July 15. Stoffer was indicted on the three felony charges by the September grand jury. He said he can bring two additional charges against the ex-chief, if he so desires.

Ford was enraged, he said, when Judge Cook returned his verdict Friday, reducing the charge of illegal use of a machinegun to a misdemeanor count, that of pointing firearms, and fined Stoffer $100 and costs and sentenced him to one year in county jail. He then suspended six months of the jail term.

3 Character Witnesses Heard
Stoffer's attorneys asked for an opportunity to mitigate the sentence before it was pronounced and had three character witnesses appear for Stoffer.

R. John Taylor, Clifford Todd and Ted Yarwood, all of Salem, appeared on the witness stand and upheld Stoffer.

Taylor operates a printing establishment in Salem. Todd is a former city policeman. An Yarwood retired as fire department captain a year ago.

Ford cross examined the witnesses and presented the court with a list of criminal charges brought against Stoffer in Youngstown and Salem courts before he was appointed to the police force.

Ford said after the judge's decision that he could not understand the verdict and refused to make public comment until he could "cool off and think it over sensibly."

The prosecutor told a News reporter that he had encountered trouble in the case from the start. Without definitely placing the responsibility, Ford said "the only people who stood by me here were the witnesses I had called."

He told the court the "crime is one of the most serious committed in Portage county in recent years and I am sure the people of the county will back me up in asking for proper restitution against this man."

RECESSION SEEN FOR COMING YEAR

(By Associated Press)
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 25.—A business recession but no major depression or deflation was predicted for 1947 by three of the nation's leading economists at the annual forecasting session of the American Economic association.

Discussing the year's financial outlook, Ragnar Naess of New York told the association convention here last night that the peak of industrial expenditures is "very close at hand."

He said prices have risen too fast and a "serious recession" which some may prefer to call a "minor depression" is in sight. Naess said no major depression would occur.

Woodward Thomas, Washington, D. C., in charge of analysis and forecasting for the Federal Reserve system board of directors said the government no longer is the dominant stimulating factor in the nation's economy. The consumer, he said, is determining the trend of events and is responsible for recent price breaks.

The Impulsive Quest For Happiness

Not all of the public's interest in the quickie marriage of movie actress Laraine Day and baseball character Leo Durocher grows out of sympathy for the boy-meets-girl routine. The matrimonial episode in which they played leading roles is a little more complicated than the ordinary story of love on a rampage.

Actress Day, explaining to the judge how she happened to be in such a hurry to marry her new husband that she got rid of the old one a little more rapidly than is considered usual under California law, said she was trying to find happiness. She had been unhappy, she explained, with the husband she was getting rid of. She hoped to be happy with the new one, to whom she said she had been married on impulse.

This is not a sermon on happiness. It is a guess that too many adults in the United States are tackling one of life's most ticklish relationships on impulse. That is why the odds on marriages, which used to be long for success, have been shortened until now they are just a shade better than 50-50. The responsibility of maintaining marriages and a civilization based on the institution of the home demands a great deal more than decision by impulse and a perennially juvenile outlook on boy-meets-girl.

Dark Corners

There are some special circumstances about the U. S. Senate's renewal of its special committee to investigate the national defense program. This is more than an ordinary decision to override the letter and spirit of congressional reorganization.

When Harry Truman headed the committee as junior senator from Missouri, he built enough political prestige on its operation to qualify himself as compromise candidate for the Democratic vice-presidential nomination in 1944—a nomination which meant, under the circumstances, the right to become chief executive of the United States.

Chairmanship of the committee, which had done valuable work and could have done much more in the hands of someone with greater zeal for looking into dark corners, passed into the hands of Senator Mead of New York, who was defeated for reelection last November. The rise of a Republican majority gave committee leadership to Senator Brewster of Maine, a Republican with a burning desire to look into dark corners.

In two dark corners, the cases of Andrew May of Kentucky and Theodore Bilbo of Mississippi, the committee already had found enough morsels of scandal to whet the appetite of its Republican members. Their reluctance to see the committee liquidated just at the time when they were in a position to look into more dark corners is as understandable as a rabbit's reluctance to give up lettuce, or a dog's desire to give up a succulent bone. Some of the best revelations potential in the conduct of the war by hindsight are going to be made by the Senate's special committee to investigate the national defense program.

Good Enough For Peoria

Perhaps because the cold snap makes bull-fighting in Mexico City sound pretty good for a change, the riot down there last Monday is hard to put out of mind.

Some 50,000 bully boys and girls, peeved at what looked to them like a bad bull, got out of hand and did $50,000 worth of damage before policemen and firemen arrived to save the stadium itself from being torn to pieces.

It's hard to put this out of mind because it stimulates a hunch that Mexico City bull-fight fans will have better exhibitions from now on. The same hunch is that if every impresario had to think of the possibility of a riot there either would be more good performances for the paying public, or fewer bad ones—and in either case the customer would be ahead. It might be possible that the public is getting too tame for its own good.

It used to be said that if a vaudeville turn could survive in Peoria, Ill., it could pass muster anywhere. Peoria was tough. Then came radio, the vaudeville performers all flocked into a new medium. Peoria became just another town for comedians to make jokes about. They forgot to be afraid of Peoria and the nation got singing commercials, which is beside the point. Bravo for the bull-fight fans who didn't like the kind of a bull they were given. Bravo for Peoria. Bravo for vaudeville and the survivors who made the grade in radio. The first riot set off by a singing commercial can't happen too soon.

— Or They Might Try This

Public reaction from the chronic butter shortage and the inflated price of that once-universal bread spread is taking the form of a drive to remove some of the hobbles from the margarine industry. One of the industry's most annoying hobbles has been inability to market its product in a color similar to that of butter when marketed. The margarine manufacturers want to add yellow coloring, which is now prohibited.

There is more than one way to do this. A way the margarine manufacturers may not have thought of would be to lobby for amendments prohibiting butter manufacturers from adding yellow coloring 'too. The fact is that butter itself does not look like butter until color has been added, which is something everybody used to know before consumers grew accustomed to "boughten" butter they forgot what home-made butter used to look like.

The Stars Say
For Sunday, January 26

SUNDAY'S horoscope shows probability of the holding over of recent depressed and curious states of mind and emotion, with a heightening of the devastating and distressing reactions on the private, domestic, social and romantic life. However, there is a stabilizing trend to seek solace or substantial assistance from spiritual sources or the friendly understanding of superiors or others of kindly insight and inclination.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be assured that a complete analysis of curious or erratic conditions, with a firm resolution to give sound consideration to current affairs, and with a same grip on the emotions, may avert a crisis and attract the friendly cooperation of employers, superiors, elders or others of kindly disposition. Surprising turn in the affairs and fortunes should follow, with happy, profitable reactions on life and its joys.

A child born on this day may have a deep undercurrent to their emotions and impulses, attracting the kindly support of influential persons. It should have a happy and successful career.

For Monday, January 27

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a very decisive and radical change of the affairs, in which high-powered energies are supported by a persistent, patient and earnest grasp of practical and constructive factors may radically turn the course of the fortunes and destiny. In this, those in power and keen interest are ready with solid support in recognition of sterling and able qualities and talents. Changes, rewards, promotion are sought but keep alert to duplicity and sinister intrigues or fraud.

On the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of a welcome change in the affairs and fortunes in which those in power and influence are ready for co-operation where there are earnest and practical concentration of the energies and skills of worthy and far-reaching consequence. Hard work, ingenuity, sincerity and sound objectives thrive, with change and new labors. But keep alert to strange advances or intrigues, subtle and sinister.

A child born on this day has excellent promise of success and sound advancement in life, its merit winning support from those in high places. It may be subject to fraud and tricksters.

Secrets told to some women go right in one ear—and then in a dozen others.

Nothing is the best thing to do in a great big hurry.

Varied Causes of Headache

BY HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

The symptom of headache is always a challenge to the physician. There are so many types of headache and it can be due to such a wide variety of causes that when a patient complains of persistent headache the doctor is up against a problem of diagnosis.

Until he can discover the source of the headache, he cannot even make a beginning on the treatment which will eliminate it.

The first thing he does is to determine the type of pain. He will want to know when the headache first developed, whether it started gradually or suddenly, whether the pain was mild or severe, constant or occurring at intervals and whether or not it stops suddenly or gradually.

When Pain Occurs
He will also want to know whether the pain comes on during the day or night, whether it is present early in the morning or late in the evening. After careful questioning about the type of pain the doctor will carry out a complete examination to determine, if possible, the source of the difficulty.

Head pains may be brought on by disturbances of the muscles, nerves or blood vessels. Some headaches are due to dilatation or stretching of the arteries or veins within the skull. Some headaches may be due to contraction of the blood vessels. No matter what the cause, the physician's objective is, first, to relieve the pain of the attack of headache, and, second, to prevent future attacks.

If the headache is due to the dilatation of blood vessels, there are drugs which can be administered which will produce contraction of these blood vessels and thus overcome the difficulty. These preparations include epinephrine and ergotamine tartrate.

Due To Contraction
Headaches due to contraction of the blood vessels are known as myogenic or rheumatic headaches. According to Drs. Bayard T. Horton and Dorothy Macy, Jr. of the Mayo Clinic, such substances as histamine and nicotinic acid have proved effective in the treatment of headaches of this type.

Of course, there are pain-relieving preparations such as aspirin which may be used in some cases to give temporary relief.

Headache is of far more importance as a cause of disability than most people realize. Its economic significance is evident from the fact that in one large factory, headache alone counted for more than 24 per cent of all absenteeism.

Thus from this standpoint alone it deserves the best attention medicine is able to give it.

There's a Difference

Although both the United States and England have some slang terms in common, they often have different meanings. An American asking an Englishman for a "fin," for instance, would probably receive a handshake.

Canton To Benefit From Well Drilled In Park

CANTON, O., Jan. 25.—The first gas well on city park lands was producing today at a rate of 4,000-5,000 cubic feet a day, after "blowing in" late yesterday.

Eugene R. Markley, president of the Markley Oil & Gas Co. which had leased the park lands for gas and oil well drilling, declared he was satisfied with the well, located in Cook Park, and described its output as "very good."

The city park department, under the contract, will receive a fourth of the well's revenue, and Markley said arrangements had been made to sell the gas to the East Ohio Gas Co. at 18 cents a thousand cubic feet.

SWEATER SERVES ITS WEARER AROUND THE CLOCK

So many and varying uses have been found for the sweater, that what was once confined to the unimaginative realm of golf coats and athletic body warmers, now is a fashionable garment that can accompany the well-dressed young lady around the clock from morning and casual wear to high-style evening costumes. Shown above are three ways of wearing the same simple sweater, which was designed by Koru for three different occasions. The sweater has a high neck and short sleeves, and when it is worn as a scarf, as at top left, is perfect for office or casual days at home. Take off the scarf, substitute a gold kid belt and choker necklace, below, and the sweater is ready to wear for afternoon tea or cocktail dates. The last version, right, is to tuck the bottom of the sweater under, roll the cap sleeves up, and wear it with a long skirt and a chiffon sequined square scarf and you have a beautiful evening costume that would be perfect for formal wear at resorts during the winter vacation season.

HOW DEEP IS A WELL?

Yes, you recognize it as a foolish question. But equally absurd is the query we sometimes put to ourselves: "How sick should a person be before consulting a Physician?" The obvious answer is that if we aren't perfectly well then certainly we're sick enough to call on the Doctor. Time is too precious to be frittered away in guessing games that may end disastrously. Get experienced aid. And of course you'll want experienced aid also in the compounding of your Doctor's prescriptions. Be sure! Bring them to this "Reliable" Pharmacy.

Many Ohioans Cashed War Bonds Last Month

CLEVELAND, Jan. 25 — Eager shoppers and returning veterans cashed thousands of war bonds in Ohio last year, but the state stood fifth in the nation in sales, State Chairman Percy W. Brown of the U. S. Savings Bond division announced today.

"The needs of millions of returning veterans, tremendous labor turnover and unrest and orgies of holiday shopping have all contributed to series 'E' redemptions," he said.

Brown said complete county redemptions were not yet available.

DEPARTMENT OF RELIEF

Quaker basketball fans did some traveling in mass Friday night and helped form one of the largest crowds to see scholastic basketball at Youngstown South's field house this season.

It was estimated that more than 3,400 fans witnessed the 56-30 victory over Youngstown Rayen.

Salem showed its fans, however, that the big floor proposition holds no fear nor obstacle to its scoring attack. Dumping in more points than they have scored all season, the Quakers didn't look exceptionally good.

One encouraging factor about the game was the Quaker ability to keep right on scoring when Bob Payer was on the bench. The big gun was idle for nearly two full quarters with four personals.

MUSINGS ON THE RAYEN GAME

Coaches from Girard scouted the Quakers Friday and reportedly didn't like what they saw. Dave Williams, tournament manager, watched the Quakers in action for the second time.

The people who thought Miller didn't have reserve power got a pleasant surprise Friday. Tommy Miner and Red Ciccozzi look plenty smooth. Rayen is supposedly the best in Youngstown. They tangled with South next week for the city series lead. Canton Lehman edged Rayen by a point at South and Canton McKinley whipped the Rayenites 54-29 on McKinley's home court a week ago. That would rate the Quakers fairly high in district circles, if you're a lover of comparative scores.

OUT OF THE MAILS

Scrappy little Jim Appedisan, now in the Navy and serving in the Hawaiian Islands, has been named as a basketball player to greater heights than his very successful high school days here.

Jimmy, now married and the father of a brand new baby daughter whom he has never seen, is playing with the Fleet Postoffice team in Hawaii. The outfit has won 27 of 32 games, including the 14th Naval District championship and the All-Service league title.

Recently the team whipped the Hawaiian All-Stars, a team now touring the United States. Jim reports by mail to Ray Reasbeck at the postoffice here and says he recently met Don Chappell of Fair ave. Jim has eight and half months of service to complete before he is discharged, but he hopes that his cage outfit will get a chance to come to Chicago for a Navy tourney before then.

HOT STOVE DEPARTMENT

Tris Speaker, one of the all-time greats of baseball, has been signed by Cleveland's Bill Veeck as an "ambassador of good will" for the club.

His exact duties, which are part-time, will include "making speeches to explain to the public what we are trying to do," Veeck says.

Speaker, a member of the famous Indian team of 1920 which won the pennant and the World Series, left the Indians to go to the Washington Senators in 1927 and closed his career, along with Ty Cobb, with Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics in 1928.

CLIPPERS WIN IN TRI-COUNTY GAME OVER BULLDOGS

Eisenwein Leads Attack With 18 Points In Palestine Gym

Columbiana tightened its hold on the Tri-County league leadership Friday night when the Clippers downed the Bulldogs 46-31 before 1600 basketball fans at East Palestine.

The Cabansmen held a slight 14-11 edge at the intermission, and then came roaring back in the last two cantos to outscore their opponents 32-20 to ice the tilt.

It was the eleventh win for the Clippers in 12 games. Don Eisenwein was the big wheel last night with an 18 point barrage. Dick Perkins and Rich Berryman contributed 11 and 10 to the Clipper cause. George Libert and Bell each notched nine for East Palestine.

LOUIS WANTS GOOD GATE AT NEXT TRY

Says He May Fight In London Against Bakshi-Woodcock Winner

(By Associated Press) LOS ANGELES, Jan. 25.—Joe Louis has a definite nomination for the next defense of his heavyweight championship. "I don't care who I fight, just so he's the one that'll draw the most money," he said.

The champ, who looked pretty good despite the fact he weighs nearly 218 pounds, is getting ready for a tour of Mexico and Central America, boxing a series of exhibitions. The first is set for Feb. 5 at Mexico City with Arturo Godoy.

Louis went on: "I'm s'posed to fight in New York June 26. I reckon it'll be with the winner of the Bakshi-Woodcock fight in London in February." Louis calls Joe Bakshi "Bakki." He went on:

"Bakki is all right, I guess. But Woodcock would draw better. It'd give the fight something—yes, an international angle. That might do a million dollars."

"Those other fellas, Gaski or Walcott—Shucks, that'd only do about $200,000."

What about Bruce Woodcock, the Englishman? "I saw him fight in New York. He's all right. Kinda slow, but not bad."

And Jersey Joe Walcott, or Elmer (Violent) Ray? "Not them. They stunk the garden out when they fought."

Leetonia Wins Over Fairfield High 35-34

A last second basket from near the center of the floor by Ed Sullivan enabled Joe Fortunato's Leetonia Bears to defeat Fairfield High 35-34 on the Bears floor.

The tilt was fairly close all the way, with Fairfield holding a two point lead at the half.

Sullivan with 11 and Rutzy with 12 points paced the Bears in the scoring column. Reash notched 10 for Fairfield.

Lanney Shows Way, Gets 16 Points; Locals Tally 14 Points In Each Quarter

Flashing the greatest scoring attack of the season, still undefeated Salem High rolled to a 56-30 victory—the ninth in a row—over Ralph Robinson's Youngstown Rayen five at South field house, Youngstown, before about 3,400 fans last night.

The Salem attack functioned consistently as the locals racked up 14 points in each of the four stanzas, despite various switches in personnel by Coach Bob Miller.

The Quakers trailed only once in the game, when Rayen led 1-0 after Andy Bubanich had sunk a foul shot. Virgil Kelly's foul knotted the count and from then on it was simply a matter of the margin Salem was going to establish.

At the close of the first quarter, with Kelly getting five, Bob Payer three, Lanney three and Laughlin three, the Quakers led 14-7.

Capt. Tony Martinelli and Lanney combined talents in the second quarter to get five points each while Sub Tommy Miner, who replaced Payer, dumped one two-pointer for a 28-16 halftime lead. Rayen got only four baskets in the first half, making eight of 12 fouls in the two frames.

Payer left the game after two minutes of the second quarter and didn't return until the start of the fourth. Jimmy Laughlin, who had three personals early in the game, went out early in the second and Ciccozzi took over for him.

At one point in the second Rayen drew to within five points of Salem, but the mild threat was the only one issued by the previously thrice-beaten outfit. Rayen has won five and lost four.

In the third frame, with Coach Miller employing a part-time pressing man-to-man defense, the Quakers clicked for three baskets and eight fouls. Kelly hit one basket and six fouls in the frame while Lanney got a basket and a pair of free throws. Martinelli made a foul and Miner dumped a long shot for two points.

Shifty Charlie Frost seemed Rayen's most dangerous threat all evening. Functioning cleverly under the basket, Frost made defensive work on him troublesome. He netted eight points.

Payer re-entered the Quaker lineup in the fourth and hit seven points, two baskets and three fouls to make his 10-point total. He played in all just two minutes over two periods.

Lanney's game, though slow-starting, was the outstanding one for Salem. He cashed in for his season's high of 16 points, making six or eight foul attempts. Kelly hit a like amount from the foul line in eight tries and made three baskets for a 12-point total.

Coach Miller used 13 players in all, running in the full sophomore reserve squad for the final two minutes. Bobby Campbell hit his first varsity points with a one-handed toss in the last few seconds. "Biggie" Faulkner clicked on one of two fouls.

Thinking About Forbes Field?

Hank Greenberg reads the papers and relaxes with his dog in New York, contemplating the coming season with the National League Pittsburgh Pirates, to whom he was sold by the American League Detroit Tigers. The 36-year-old major league home-run king (44 last year) is one of baseball's highest paid players (around $60,000 last year).

Set Hearing Dates On Ohio Canal Job

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 25—Army engineers today announced two hearings would be held early next month in connection with the proposed 105-mile Ohio river-Lake Erie canal from Beaver, Pa., to Ashtabula, O.

Construction of the canal with a nine-foot draft was first recommended to congress by the engineers in 1939.

The new hearings will be held to bring up to date cost estimates and prospective benefits for a review report asked by congress.

A proposal to make the canal suitable for 14-foot draft boats so that it could also be used by lake carriers will be reviewed.

Col. E. W. Lawrence, Pittsburgh district engineer, said the first hearing will be held in the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce building Feb. 7 at 1:30 p. m. A second hearing is slated for Feb. 11 in Edgewood school, Ashtabula.

Reduce Milk Price

CANTON, Jan. 25—Stark county dairies, in a surprise action coincident with a similar step by Cleveland producers, today reduced the retail price of milk two cents, quoting the figure for the standard grade at 18 cents a quart.

Taft Starts Senatorial Argument—On 'Beauty'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25—Now Republicans and Democrats in congress are debating about their respective beauty—or the male equivalent.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) started it.

At the main lobster dinner the other night he observed:

"I've always been tolerant of my Democratic friends, but I can't escape the conviction that my Republican conferees are so much better-looking than the Democrats."

That was too much for Senator Fulbright (D-Ark.)

"I'll challenge that down to the last hominy grit," he said. "So far as looks go, those lumbering elephants are a batch of bull weevils."

Another Democrat, Senator Johnston of South Carolina, had a more negative approach.

"So far as I'm concerned," he observed, "no men are very great beauties."

Flu Claims 60 Lives

BOSTON, Jan. 25—Death of 60 patients in Massachusetts and Rhode Island hospitals from a mysterious influenza diarrhea was attributed today—at least partially—to a shortage of nurses and attendants.

Recess At Steubenville

STUEBENVILLE, Jan. 25—After hearing 175 witnesses, Jefferson county grand jury which has been investigating crime and vice conditions here since Jan. 7, recessed yesterday to return Jan. 31, when they will report.

Ohio Edison Power Plant Is Approved By Agency

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25—The Office of Temporary controls announced today that in the week ending Jan. 16 it approved non-housing projects costing an estimated $1,475,827 to alleviate extreme unemployment condition in eight eastern and southern cities.

Projects listed as approved to alleviate unemployment included:

A $295,827 plant to manufacture oven-proof dinnerware for the Universal Pottery, Inc., at Cambridge, Ohio.

Among projects approved for other reasons were:

A $780,000 power plant for the Ohio Edison Company at Akron, O.
